SUPT. BUELL BRINGS ATTENTION TO SORORITY MEMBERSHIP TO STUDENTS

Yesterday morning at the opening exercises at the high school, Supt. H. C. Buell brought to the attention of all the young ladies in the student body, the fact that after January 1st of next year, no female student can become a member of a sorority, if they have been members of high school or other sororities before. This regulation was passed last spring by the National Federation of Sororities, and goes into effect the first of next year. While all sororities do not belong to the Federation, the most important and best regulated ones do.

ASK FOR PERMISSION TO SHIP OUT SHEEP

ROCK COUNTY FARMERS AMONG THOSE WHO ARE FEEDING HEAVY WESTERN CONSIGNMENTS.

SITUATION IS OUTLINED

Secretary of Agriculture Petitioned in Effort to Secure Partial Relief From Quarantine Restrictions.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., Dec. 2.—The federal authorities have been appealed to by permit Wisconsin stockmen to ship large consignments of sheep to packing centers to relieve the congestion which, if allowed to continue, threatens to result in the infection of valuable flocks of sheep held in Rock, Kenosha and Dane counties. The situation is summed up in State Veterinarian O. H. Eliason's telegram last night to Secretary of Agriculture D. J. Houston at Washington, in which he said:

"The Wisconsin Live Stock Sanitary Board respectfully submits the following for your consideration: In the quarantine counties this state are at least 50,000 finished sheep, ready for slaughter, distributed among different farmers ranging all distances from places of infection. No disease spread to these sheep, but if it should be estimated. Abattoirs in state absolutely inadequate. It is the opinion of your local field chief that this source of danger should be removed. It is not possible that the sheep can be made and these lambs loaded under the supervision of your inspectors and shipped in sealed cars to distant packing houses in Chicago. The situation is alarming and the people respectfully pray for relief."

The state veterinarian's office has been besieged for several days with requests of shippers and by messengers asking for relief of the kind here demanded. Dr. Eliason assured them that if it were in his power he would order the release of the sheep instantly, as this action would tend to remove a great source of infection and further infection. He said that once the foot and mouth disease reaches these large flocks of sheep the possibility for vast losses is almost beyond estimate.

Michigan Plague Sore.
Reports have come to the Wisconsin state veterinarian that the hoof and mouth disease has been found in Michigan for a period covering many years, being covered up when inspectors visited the vicinity. This information and corroborative evidence have been given to federal inspectors in charge of the quarantine and inspection work in Michigan and the suspected herds are being investigated. It is declared that the disease which prevented a number of years ago was not entirely eradicated in the Michigan counties from which the present reports come. One of these herds is said to be near Channing, in the northern part of the state, and the other in the northern part of the southern peninsula.

The report of the disease still existing in Michigan originated about four years ago. A report from Channing indicated the disease had been in that vicinity for several months, and that it was being kept hidden when inspectors came around and that they had failed to locate it. Michigan has been visited by the scourge now afflicting the country.

Warned Against Importers.
In the following bulletin the department of agriculture warns stock owners against importers who are attempting to deceive farmers in various ways in regard to the foot and mouth disease epidemic:

"Reports are now beginning to come in to the department from several of the states quarantined for the foot and mouth disease that persons who have no connection whatsoever with the department are attempting to pass themselves off as federal inspectors. There are several possible motives for this, but the most likely is that they might account for existence of the disease. In the outbreak of the disease, a very simple form of extortion is being practiced. It may be the sale of some quack remedy for the disease.

"Stock owners can protect themselves very easily against this fraud. For there is no remedy for the foot and mouth disease. Since the germ has never been isolated, it has never been possible as yet to find any serum that would act either as a cure or preventive, and the public may be quite certain that anyone who says that he is an employee of the department of agriculture, and at the same time attempts to sell or even recommend anything of the sort, is simply an impostor. For this reason stock owners are warned not to allow strangers to visit their stock or attempt any demonstrations of so-called cures by injection or otherwise.

Danger of Disinfection.
There is, moreover, very great danger that such people might disseminate the disease. It is a well-known fact that the germ can be carried on clothing. In infected areas, therefore, it is quite possible that a person who has come in contact with infected animals may bring the disease to a perfectly healthy herd. This also accounts for much of the spread of hog cholera.

"The department therefore recommends all farmers to keep their animals from contact with all save those who have definite business with them.

GIVES PRACTICAL TALK AT TUESDAY'S MEETING

Large Audience Hears Evangelist Barrett Last Night Despite Unfavorable Weather.

At the close of the banquet given by the brotherhood at the Methodist church last evening, Mr. Barrett spoke on "Absolute Certainties," one of the most practical talks of the campaign. He said that some things were absolutely certain, among which were to be mentioned: "There is an absolute difference between right and wrong and no one has any right to take their stand on wrong. That every man should make an honest and earnest search for the truth until he finds it. That all men are sinners and need a Saviour from the guilt and power of sin. That Jesus Christ does save men from sin's guilt and power. That only Jesus Christ saves men. That the man who takes his stand on the Bible and the truths that it teaches is the happiest man on God's green earth today."

The evening service was finely attended in spite of the rain. Rev. Partridge of the Presbyterian church led in prayer, and Miss Barrett sang the Name of Jesus. Mr. Barrett spoke here on "What Think Ye Of Christ," and many considered it the strongest sermon that has yet been preached. To night Mr. Barrett promises a special sermon on a peculiar topic, "Not the Manufactured Article."

NEARLY ALL SECURE LUXURY WAR STAMPS

Few Local Merchants Delinquent in Purchase of Revenue Stickers.

The democratic war tax on "luxuries" is already working. The greater number of local merchants and professional men have their supplies of stamps on hand and are safe from the ten per cent additional penalty at auction if they failed to take cognizance of the act which became effective yesterday.

On Monday merchants and others who had need of the tax stamps suddenly awoke to the fact that the act became effective at midnight. There was a great scurrying to the banks and the office of Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Peter J. Mout, but at no place was there a shortage of stamps. Banks had on hand a large supply of documentary stamps, but there was a shortage for gum or toilet waters, perfumes and tobacco, poolrooms and bowling alleys.

The only thing left was to send to Madison. Reports that the supply there is nearly exhausted, but that providing declaration has been made the penalty will not be imposed. Milwaukee department store managers have made a question for Uncle Sam to answer in regard to the tax stamps on sachet bags. The men declare that stamps affixed to such silk and satin creations will ruin them and, incidentally, refused to purchase them. Miss Margaret, the Milwaukee collector has put question up to Washington. Sachet comes under the list of perfumery.

NEW ARRANGEMENTS FOR CHARITY WORK

Local Body Revises Constitution and Centralizes Duties on Board of Directors.

The Associated Charities met at the assembly room of the city hall yesterday afternoon. The committee for revision of the constitution and by-laws, consisting of Miss Margaret Mout, Mrs. Thomas Burns and Rev. George Edwin Partridge, made their report through its chairman, Mrs. Burns. It called attention to the fact that the present constitution and by-laws of the Janesville Associated Charities had not been changed since the 22nd day of February, 1898. The committee recommended that the constitution be revised and centralized the work of the Associated Charities by placing the direct responsibility upon a board of directors of fifteen members, and choosing of a finance committee, apart from the board, and placing in each ward three vice presidents who will supervise the needs of each ward.

The following is a list of the board of directors: First ward: Mrs. E. D. Tallman, Miss Cornelia V. Reddy, Mrs. E. D. Tallman, second ward: Mrs. Hoffmeister, Miss Mary Mout, Mrs. Allen Lovejoy, third ward: Miss Josephine Carle, Miss Louise Merl, Mrs. M. J. Devine, fourth ward: Mrs. C. E. Devine, Miss Mable Greenman, Mrs. Nellie Horn, fifth ward: Mrs. Thos. Burns, Mrs. Arthur Jones, Miss Marjorie Mout. A board of directors will elect their own officers and such persons will be the officers of the society. The work of the association is to be directed by the general secretary, The Rev. Henry W. Mann has assumed this responsibility.

NORTHWESTERN SEEKS MEN TO CLEAN CARS

Can Keep Force of Thirty or Forty Busy for a Number of Weeks Disinfecting Stock Cars.

If there are men who are out of work in Janesville their services are badly needed at South Janesville where the Northwestern company has scores of stock cars waiting on the sidings to be cleaned and disinfected in conformance with the federal quarantine for the foot and mouth disease. According to Alvah Hemmings, local Northwestern agent, there is pressing need for thirty-five or forty men who will be given steady employment for a number of weeks. At present there are seventy-five or more men waiting on the sidings and these must be cleaned before they can be put into use by the company on any part of the system. Stock cars are brought to Janesville from points west and north, in fact all sections of Wisconsin, and it is probable that many hundreds will be re-cleaned at the local yards before the quarantine is lifted.

Road Mar Krimm was in Janesville today looking after the work of disinfection. The treatment of stock cars must be thorough and requires a good deal of work, involving considerable expense. The cleaning and disinfection must be done after each time the cars are used. The Northwestern yards at Butler also are the scene of similar operations as that point is a center for the northern part of the state.

It is estimated that a train or two of cars a day will be brought to South Janesville for treatment during the continuance of the quarantine.

STORM SEWER PLANS ARE ORDERED DRAWN

City Commission Takes Steps to Correct Drainage Trouble at West Bluff and River Streets.

City Engineer C. V. Kerch was directed by the city commission, at the weekly meeting yesterday afternoon, to prepare plans for the extension of the storm sewer from the intersection of West Bluff and River streets to the intersection of Wall and River streets. The need for this improvement was brought up by the council at last week's meeting. It is calculated to eliminate all drainage water from going into the raceway of River street.

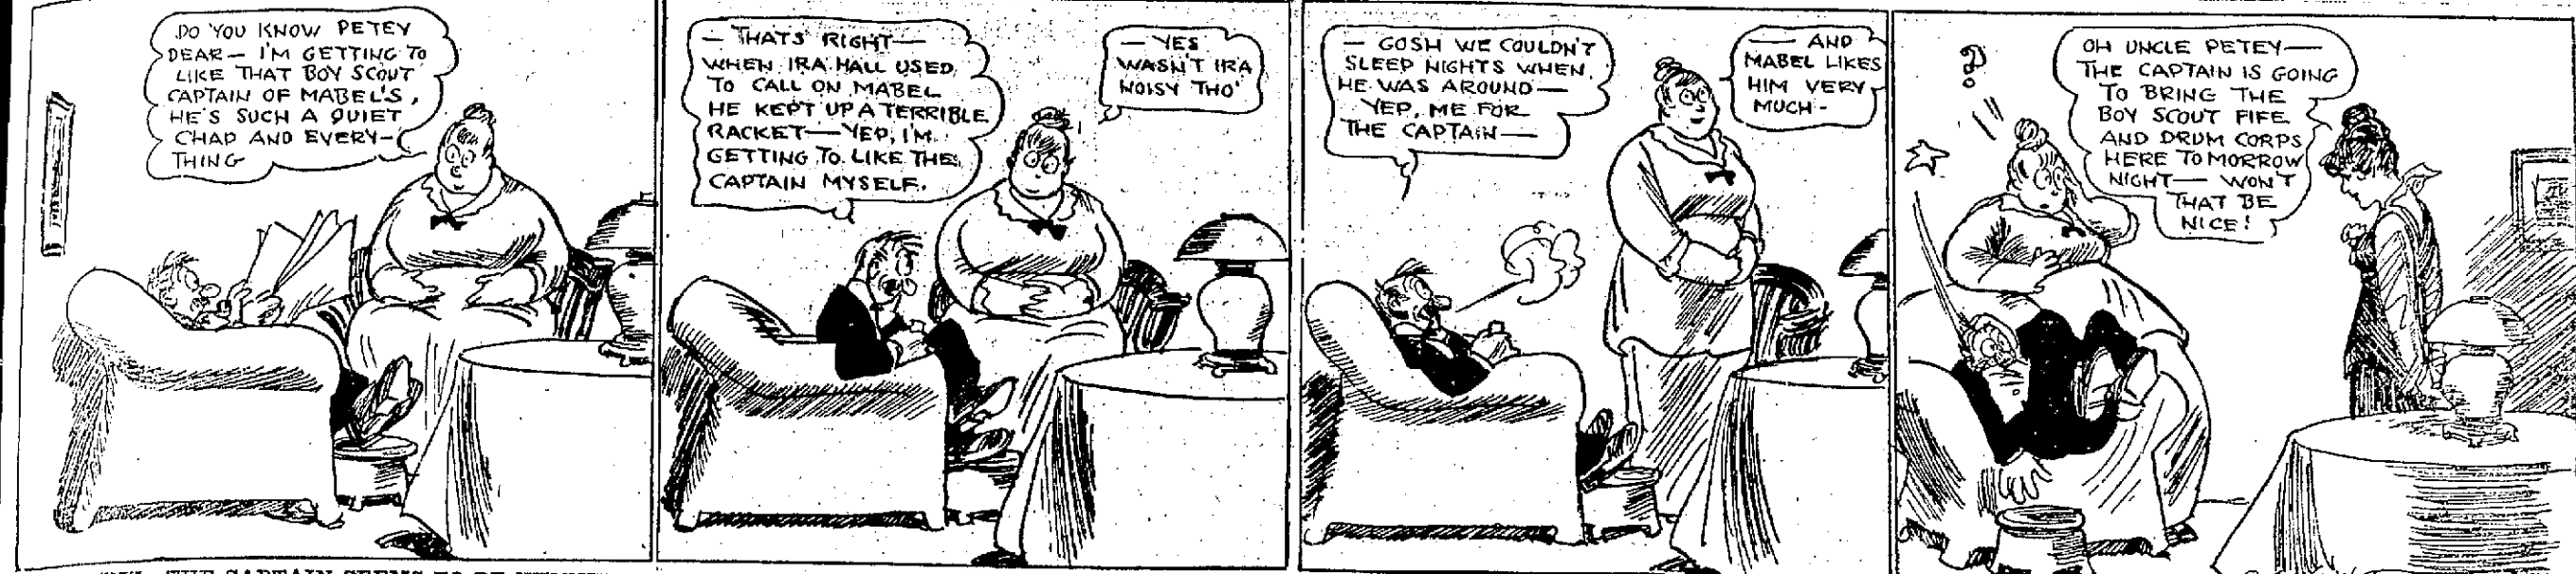

The sewer as planned will be of eighteen inch tile laid at the depth of six or eight feet. The biggest problem to contend with in the construction of the extension is to place way tracks on the street. City Engineer Kerch reported this morning that the work will be taken up immediately and plans made at an early date. It is expected that the extension will be effective in remedying present drainage troubles.

City Attorney W. H. Dougherty, City Engineer C. Kerch and City Treasurer George Muench were appointed as a board of appraisers, with out compensation, to appraise and assess the cost and expenses of the real estate to be benefited by the improvement. A report on the increased assessment will be made at the next council meeting.

The report of the board of education showing the amount of $10,988.10 during the month of November, was received and ordered published.

For the report of the municipal court for the month of November, was received, accepted and ordered published. There were but twelve cases listed in the record, this number being the lowest since the court opened. The court fees totaled $14.02, penalties $28.00, city marshal fees $5.60. The largest fine was paid by Floyd Drahtal, one hundred dollars, for assault and battery.

Police Chairman, made by Chief of Police, was received and accepted and ordered filed. During the month there were 80 arrests made, 28 of which were taken into court and 34 released. Chief champion. "BIG FOUR" ARE BEST HEAVIES OF TODAY

When "Big Dingo" Meets Sam McVey In Cuba March it Will Be Battle Between Old "Friends."

New York, Dec. 2.—It won't be a meeting of strangers when John Arthur Johnson and Samuel McVey, both heavyweights, clash in a twenty-round bout in Cuba in March. McVey, who is known as "Big Dingo," and Johnson, who is known as "Sam," are old acquaintances. They have fought each other in the past, and Johnson has been victorious in both of their previous encounters. Johnson is a former champion, and McVey is a former contender. They are both considered to be among the best heavyweights of the day.

already began to talk favorably concerning Wisconsin's chance. And they have reason to have this faith for twice Coach Meanwell has developed a title team when chances were no brighter than they are this year. Of last year's varsity five Captain Lange, Haas, Dingle and Smith are the only men back for their regular positions, but there are no less than two scores of other aspiring candidates, including the entire freshman team of last year, out for the other positions. Among the most likely candidates is "Vinddy" Lewis, a junior who was kept out of the game last year on account of ineligibility. Lewis, according to Meanwell, is one of the best forwards that ever played at Wisconsin.

The real problem in preparing the Badgers for their first game will be to find a man to take Captain Gene Van Gent's place at center.

Sport Snap Shots

If Leo Magee's contract with the St. Louis National league ball club is, as stated by his employers, one of the new documents, which is now being used as a legal rock by organized ball, it seems certain that the Magee contract will be the test argument for the whole 1915 season. Always provided, of course, that the Feds get that far, or even open their campaign. Very few attempts have so far been made to jump these contracts, which were drawn up for the express purpose of holding the players in tight but equitable terms. Whenever subjected to court inspection, these documents have been held perfectly valid, and the sad experience of Armando Marsans ought to have served as a lesson to the would-be hoppers. The upholding of Magee's contract would mean the practical annihilation of the first federal league hope, as their only chance to get started is to break through the safeguards of new agreements—hence it begins to look as if, probably without his ever having thought of it, Leo Magee is to the big central figure of baseball litigation if he goes to play with or manage the Brooklyn Federals.

Pat Moran, who has been named to replace Red Doan as manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, is one of baseball's most interesting characters. With that name it might be supposed that Moran would be just a local Irishman from the city lots, with possibly a grammar school education. Moran looks Irish enough in the face, all right, but is a man of culture and attainments, and one of the recognized authorities upon the literature and poetry of ancient Ireland. His knowledge of the dying Gaelic language is remarkable and his collection of old Irish songs and legends is one of considerable value. Moran was with the Boston Nationals some several seasons ago and was obtained by the Cubs to alternate with Kline. When he began to show up he was transferred to the Phillies.

Both Manager Herzog and President Herrmann state that Olson, former Nap, is to play regularly with the Reds in 1915. Now where will Ivan play? First base appears to be the only position open. That team has Heinie Groh for second base, Manager Herzog for short and either Bert Niehoff or Count Von Kintz for third base. Olson is less at home at first than at any other infield spot, but he is versatile enough to make good there just the same.

Davy Jones, former Tiger, who is now Federal leaguer with the Pittsburg Rebels, is a second baseman in everything except speed, hitting and thinking. Otherwise the similarity is very striking. Jones has seen both men perform, and in his opinion, ranks below Cobb, Speaker, Mann and even Crawford. Kauf, says Jones, is a major league outfielder all right, but not an extraordinary player. Jones says Kauf is a mechanical player—he prospers with prosperity and recedes with reverses.

A most inquisitive Indianapolis fan wants to know if the Federal league didn't promise all the players of its pennant-winning club $4,000 automobiles—and, if so, why the Indianapolis haven't received them? Don't rush on. Don't be in such a fever. They'll get them, all delivered at the ballgame the day the Federals are admitted as contenders in the world's series.

The major league ball clubs may not feel keenly the stunted financial strength of the south next spring as an aftermath of the low price on cotton, but more than one of them will change their spring plans. Detroit, for one, will play fewer exhibition games than ever before. This means the club will start south about two weeks later than usual. No money is made on exhibition games in the south as a rule, but what is taken in lightens the burden, and is not to be sniffed at. Cincinnati is another club that plans a less extensive spring trip, while a general curtailment in games may be looked for.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

The famous Tribune war pictures will be shown at Myers Theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 8th and 9th. These pictures are being shown in New York. The following report was clipped: New York, Nov. 29th.—(Special) The Popular Motion Picture company exhibited tonight at the Thirty-ninth street theatre, the first time in New York, the Belgian battlefield motion pictures. The fighting and the trail of ruin and desolation that follows in its wake is shown in a series of remarkable films. The pictures were taken in Belgium by Weigle, the first of the Chicago Tribune staff, with the permission of the Belgian government. Scenes from the battle of Termonde, Alost and Malines are shown. The first of Antwerp and the flight of the refugees to Holland are also pictured. One of the most dramatic pictures is the explosion of a shell tearing to pieces a house just back of the firing line near Termonde. Mr. Weigle made the pictures when the Germans were shelling the city.

Lyman Howe Travelogue. Among the big new features with the Lyman Howe Travel Festival which comes to the Myers Theatre Dec. 25th and 26th, a "thrill of thrills" is promised on a new ride on a runway train. Another spectacular adventure is that which takes spectators down into the crater of Vesuvius. The growth of plants and flowers; new bird studies; the electrolysis of metals; a railroad ride through Greece; and a trip through quaint, historic and ever-changing Venice, are only a few of the remarkable subjects included in the new program.

The Mule. A wise man, in his own estimation, announces that a mule kicks because it doesn't know any better. This will greatly surprise many students of contemporary mule life. If ever there was an animal with low cunning expressed in its eye and its twitching nostril, that animal is the mule. Its ability to place a kick where it will give the greatest offense to its victim, is something marvelous.

BADGERS PREPARING FOR BASKETBALL NOW

Captain Large Heads Squad Who Are Expected to Repeat in Conference Basketball.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Dec. 2.—Now that the 1914 football season is over, the thoughts of those interested in athletics at the university have turned to basketball, which will hold the center of the stage until late next March.

John Wisconsin has for three years running, twice with an unblemished record, captured the conference basketball title, students at the university can see nothing but victory for the Badgers again this season. Coach Meanwell, however, does not share this optimism, for he predicts a hard year in basketball at Wisconsin.

Unlimited faith in Coach Meanwell's ability to turn out champions and Big teams has put faith in the hands of the student body who have

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT.

This is the time of the year when the spirit of giving, peace on earth and good will towards all, should be predominant. An exchange in commenting upon the Christmas spirit, urges the public to keep it up and not let it be dropped. The suggestion is a worthy one and should be given due consideration. While Christmas will have an unusual element of sadness this year, even a world-wide catastrophe should not be allowed to overcome all the season's joy. A strange Christmas will it be among the beleaguered nations. In thousands of homes, stricken by the loss of dear ones or with loved ones still on the danger line, Christmas festivities will seem altogether out of place. Among these made destitute by the war, there will be little Christmas cheer except as others carry it to them. But our sympathy for those who suffer should not be altogether of the good cheer that Christmas brings with it, or of the gift-making which characterizes the season. No child should look back upon a Christmas without a tree, toys and good things.

"The suggestion that no Christmas presents be bought this year, and that the money thus saved be sent to the relief of Europe's war victims, will not make a popular appeal. Were no Christmas purchases made this year it would be no more than to follow that all, or a large part, of the money so saved would be sent to the sufferers in Europe. The laws of human nature are such that if all Christmas gifts were checked it would tend to stop also the charity which has for weeks been flowing to Europe. The majority of people would reason that if they couldn't buy presents for their children or friends they could not afford to contribute to relief funds. Do people realize, too, what a business disturbance would result if Christmas buying were curtailed on a large scale? The Christmas trade represents often the yearly profits. If that trade were suddenly and seriously curtailed it would mean disaster for hundreds of stores and for many thousands of employees.

But this Christmas does give an opportunity for certain much-desired reforms. Recent years have witnessed a growing tendency to senseless living. Many presents are made with no thought other than paying a debt or establishing a credit. There is no better time than now to cut out such commercialism, and to make all giving reflect the true Christmas spirit. When we do this we shall have all the customary joy of the season in the home and in friendship's circle. We will be in the mood also to remember the suffering thousands across the seas, and in our own land the needy ones who will be in far greater numbers this year than usual.

THE NEUTRAL PRESS.

The question of keeping the press neutral in a serious problem for the press of the old time days was correspondent who shared the hardships of the officers and men in a tedious campaign, who endured all sorts of hardships, escaped by almost miracles, seeming death, and after desperate rides by horse, race on foot and unusual exertion reached a telegraph office and sent out their news of the battles in the past. It is but a memory. Today the war correspondent is not permitted within twenty miles of the actual fighting line. His dispatches must be carefully written, filed with a press censor, usually a man absolutely without any sense of fitness as to news value, and after being revised is sent off to this country, but a meagre fragment of the real meaning of the original dispatch.

The majority of the news forwarded to the American papers comes through the press censors' offices in the capitals of the various nations at war. It is biased, meagre in detail, lacking all news value in the true sense of the word and insufficient for the wants of the public. Correspondents who have actually been at the fighting line have been delayed in sending their dispatches and letters, that they have lost value when finally sent. Yet the press of the neutral countries is supposed to remain neutral. In fact it is the duty of the American press to be neutral. Leslie's Weekly takes up this question of neutrality and says: "It is our duty to remain neutral in regard to the European war not merely as a nation, but as a people. Upon our free and unconcerned press rests great responsibility not to abuse its power in such a way as to embarrass the United States in any efforts it may in the future have the privilege of making in behalf of peace among the warring powers. The unique strength of the American people lies in the fact that we are a composite of some of the best elements among all the peoples of Europe. While it is only natural, therefore, that every man's sympathy should go back to the land from which he or his fathers came, all are American citizens now whose first duty is to preserve the honor and good name of America.

"A greater danger, however, lies in the possibility of reckless language by the press. Senator Stone of Missouri, chairman of the foreign relations committee, has made in the senate a vigorous appeal that the strictest neutrality be observed. He cited how some ill-timed publications in American newspapers during the Russo-Japanese war 'almost cost us the friendship of Russia, a friendship that had become traditional.' The senator pointed out that since then our negotiations with Russia to bring about more favorable conditions for the Jewish people in that empire plainly showed the effects of this unfortunate attitude of a portion of the American press. In its criticism of the present war, the press should avoid all parties and expressions which, as Senator Stone says, 'arouse hot resentment abroad and may work ostracism and prevent free and cordial intercourse between this government and the nations at war.' The mission of the United States in this war is to remain strictly neutral in order that we may be of the greatest possible service to all the European peoples when the war is past."

HEALTH, WEALTH AND PROSPERITY.

The old motto that nothing succeeds like success is evidenced in the fact that today Wisconsin is enjoying the season of "health, wealth and prosperity." It has not been a case of the other old motto, "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise." It is just the result of bumper crops, confidence in the community they live in and the general tone of confidence that the employers of labor have in the future. Seldom in times that have been described as hard as the present, has there been as much work offered the unemployed as at present. The business enjoys the result of this confidence. Few communities has the real effects of the so-called hard times been seriously felt for more than a few months. The increased demand for Wisconsin products for foreign consumption is increasing and will increase, so it is not a bit far-fetched to say that the whole state is enjoying an epidemic of "health, wealth and prosperity."

Governor-elect Philipp is taking his time about making known any possible appointments which may be made after he takes office. In this he is wise. The average rush for office by the pop-sucking politician and his friends has been one of the disgusting features of charges in administrations in the past. When Mr. Philipp makes up his mind who to appoint for various offices he will let the public know, but until then there will be much uncertainty.

The small boy who has tired of baseball, football and out-of-door sports is most anxiously awaiting the advent of a genuine snow storm so he may test out the capability of his coaster and perhaps get a chance to use the skates he received last Christmas and did not have a good chance to test before spring came.

Business failures announcements appear to be among the smaller industries of the country. According to Bradstreet's review, 34 per cent of the firms forced to the wall have had capitalizations of less than $5,000, and 11 per cent less than $20,000. It would appear that little business as well as big is being smashed.

OUR National Opportunity LESSONS for AMERICA from the WAR

HOW THE RESERVE SYSTEM WORKS.

(By George H. Benedict.)

The average man reads in his paper that the Federal Reserve Bank has released for business credit the enormous sum of $1,460,711,345, and he says: "Fine! That's a lot of money, and I ought to get some indirect benefit of it." He reads further that plans are making for the release of $150,000,000 more. Also that the New York Federal Bank has resources of $100,000,000, and that the other eleven district banks have each enough millions at their disposal to be fairly cushioned with money.

Strangely enough, our financial chiefs and writers have not taken the trouble to explain how the whole thing is going to work in terms understood by the average man. Here is the story in everyday terms:

John Jones operates a factory. For several months he has been going slow because it has been hard to borrow money. The average man can hardly appreciate how great an extent John Jones and the other manufacturers and merchandisers depend upon borrowed money to conduct their operations.

The Federal Reserve system begins operations, and Jones sees an opportunity to get money, so that he may buy a big stock of raw materials and take on more men. The market is waiting. He can only finance his operations.

So Jones goes to his bank, which is a member of the reserve system. He gives the treasurer an outline of his plans and explanations, furnishes a financial statement, and asks for a line of credit, resorting to an amount which is not too great for the possibilities of his business.

If the directors or the loan committee of the bank approve, Jones gives his note and gets the money, with the interest deducted in advance.

So far, this is just the way loans have been managed in the past. Note how the new Federal Reserve system works.

John Jones takes his note to the district reserve bank and asks for a line of credit. Then Jones' bank has more money to lend to Henry Smith, the jobber who wants to buy some of the product of Jones' factory, and who can do it, now that this flexible new system has gone into effect.

Henry Smith's note goes to the district bank, and money is advanced on it. And so it goes up to the point where all the available money in the district bank has been put out through its hundreds of member banks. Every community is bound to be helped.

Interest rates will be lower, and business ought to show great results from such stimulation.

It's the jolliest thing that I know by far. And my heart in rapture melts; I love to ride in a touring car. When it's owned by someone else.

COLLECT FOODSTUFFS TO SEND TO BELGIUM

MOVEMENT STARTED IN ROCK
COUNTY TO SECURE CONTRI-BUTIONS OF CORN AND POTATOES.

FARMERS WILL DONATE

County Y. M. C. A. Committee Under Direction of Secretary Markham
Will Take Charge of Receiving Supplies.

Announcement was made today of a plan for receiving donations of clothing and foodstuffs, especially corn and potatoes, from the farmers and merchants of Rock county for shipment to Belgium for the relief of the war-torn people. Members of the county
Y. M. C. A. committee, headed by Secretary Markham, will have charge of the collection work the details of which are now being arranged.

The idea of those behind the new relief movement was that there are many persons who did not feel that they could afford to give money toward the cause, but would be glad to donate foodstuffs of corn or potatoes or old clothing, for which the need is just as pressing as for cash.
In fact all money sent in to the American committee is used to purchase food and supplies to be shipped to Belgium for the benefit of the thousands of destitute, homeless victims of the war.

Hope for Ready Response.
Secretary Markham is enthusiastic over the work and hopes to find a ready response from the farmers. He plans to discuss the matter at the various group meetings, to have announcements made from the churches and public gatherings, and to arrange for personal solicitation where it is possible. It is probable that arrangements will be made with the railroads to have a car located at certain stations at given dates when goods will be received.

Hon. J. M. Whitehead in a statement today outlined briefly the scheme which it is expected will net several carloads of grain and potatoes. The statement follows:
Editor Gazette:

Will you kindly allow me a line or two of your valuable space to mention the plan of the Rock county Y. M. C. A. council in connection with the Wisconsin Advancement Association. This organization was primarily established to boost Wisconsin in every way possible. It has very prominent men as its officers and on its executive committee.

Need for Clothing.
Attention is called, among other things, to the need of clothing, and the association will take the responsibility of seeing that wherever it contributed in this way is placed where it will do the most good. If merchants have show room goods of any description that can be utilized, whatever they see fit to contribute will be most thankfully received.

The association is also calling for contributions of the products of the soil, especially corn and potatoes.
They have undertaken to contribute a carload of corn for each county of the state, and it is proposed that each county of Wisconsin do even better.

Alonso Markham, secretary of the county Y. M. C. A., and the members of the county committee, kindly consented to take charge of all contributions to this relief fund, and those who desire to contribute may confer with them. I shall be glad to furnish any information that I possess and render any assistance I can.

RENEW LA CROSSE

TELEPHONE FIGHT

New Action Begun by Wisconsin Company Relative to the Physical Connection Controversy.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Dec. 2.—Another action has been commenced by the Wisconsin Telephone company in the La Crosse physical connection telephone controversy. Originally the commission made an order determining that physical connection should be furnished
between the Wisconsin Telephone company and the La Crosse Telephone company. In this order the commission left it to the companies to determine on what basis the tolls were to be distributed between the companies. Because of the inability of the companies to agree on any basis the commission later entered a supplemental order fixing the rates of compensation.

Upon the first order of the commission an action was brought in the circuit court of Dane county to set aside the order as confiscatory. This case is still under advisement in the court. Now the Wisconsin Telephone company has brought a second action
in the circuit court of Dane county,
this time to compel the La Crosse
company to comply with the commission's order, in which the commission determined that physical connection should be furnished. As in the first action the Wisconsin Telephone company claims that the rates are confiscatory. The decision of the commission will be defended in the case by the attorney for the La Crosse company, Miller, Mack & Fairchild
of Milwaukee who represent the Bell company.

YOUNG GIRLS TELL SENSATIONAL STORY

THREE CONVICTED OF BEING DE-LINQUENT ARE SENTENCED TO MILWAUKEE
SCHOOL.

LURED BY COMPANIONS

Children Not Yet Sixteen Years of Age
Admit Associations With Persons
of Criminal and Vicious Natures.

Ruth Wheelock, aged 15 years, Lizzie Manning, aged 13 years, and Rachel Manning, aged 12 years, were committed to the Milwaukee School of Correction by Municipal Judge H. L.
Maxfield this morning, upon conviction of the charges of being delinquent children. The girls were aged 14 years, was also brought into court but not sentenced, as her parents were not present, and the court adjourned her case until four o'clock
this afternoon.

The charges against the four girls were made by Chief of Police P. D.
Champion, who yesterday uncovered
the most sensational juvenile crime case that this city has experienced in many a day. The warrants charged the girls with being delinquent and to have knowingly associated with persons of vicious and criminal nature,
and that their parents had no control over them.

Yesterday Chief Champion, in attempting to find the Wheelock and Manning girls, received information that they were at a stock stable at a Brodhead youth at the stock stables at the fair grounds. It is asserted the Wheelock girl also stayed at one of the stock stables on Monday night, but the girl denied this. Chief Champion on this information Chief Champion took the two girls into custody and started questioning them as to their habits.

Their confession was so criminal in its nature that Chief Champion called District Attorney S. G. Dundell into conference, and the fellows girl, Lizzie Manning, were arrested at this time. The evidence in the case is almost unbelievable, being of the most carnal nature and character. The extent of their testimony will be revealed by the authorities at this time. It is asserted that the implication is being made by the authorities
implicating several other persons.

Police at once started search for the Brodhead youth and all the trains were closely watched in hopes he could be apprehended before reaching home. The young man is eighteen or nineteen years of age, and is employed by the St. Paul railway as a brakeman.
When asked this morning where he gained from the four girls, they believed them to be taken to the county jail
and the fellows girl allowed to go home this morning.

Against them and they were arraigned before Judge Maxfield in the municipal court. District Attorney Dundell appeared for the state, E. H. Ryan for the girls. The girls were taken to the Milwaukee School of Correction
for Rachel Manning and W. H. Dougherty for Lizzie Manning. All but the parents and court officers were excluded,
even the press representatives.

After the girls were taken to court room, the three girls named were convicted and will be taken to the Milwaukee School of Correction. The court officers refused to give information regarding what effect their investigation would have, other than the matter would be sifted to the bottom.
With the exception of Mrs. Falloway
all the girls were present in court
this morning, and were questioned by the attorneys regarding the home habits of the convicted girls. It was said that two of them refused to answer questions and that night
hours were an unknown rule to them.
The Manning girl told the police that she went home generally at nine o'clock and explained to her parents that she had been to the "movies."

KERCH TO TESTIFY IN IMPORTANT SUIT

Suit of Luten Against Cement Contractors is One of National Interest.

City Engineer C. V. Kerch will be one of the principal witnesses in the action of Daniel B. Luten vs. The Gould Construction company and Kierman et al. when the suit is brought before a United States court in the near future. On Tuesday Kerch was in Rockford on business relating to the suit and has been present at conferences of the attorneys at Madison.
Luten brought suit about a year ago against the two companies for alleged infringement on its methods of reinforcing cement in bridge building here. The plaintiff in the case has submitted evidence to the court and the attorneys, Richmond, Jackson and Stevens, are preparing the case for the defendants. The suit is attracting nation-wide attention because of its importance to cement contractors. The state highway commission is among the parties interested in the case. Luten claims to have complete control of the methods of cement construction as used by every contractor with thirty-six patents, and fifty claims. The field is what is covered, according to Kerch, this morning, and it is thought methods claimed by Luten, who demands royalty for their use, were in use a number of years ago.

German Surgeons Give Views of Healing of Wounds Caused by Different Implements
of War.

[Correspondence of The A. P.]
Berlin, Dec. 2.—The German surgeons have begun to talk about their experience in healing the wounded in this war who are coming from the fronts to the Saxon Army, recently delivered an address at one of the improved hospitals on the line of the German communications, in which he gave most interesting information
on this subject.

Payr pointed out that the balls
used in shrapnel shells produce much more dangerous wounds than rifle bullets. They carry into the body fragments of clothing, corresponding quantity of body. There was superiority in 70 to 75 per cent. of cases.
The same danger is still more serious
with wounds from fragments of shells.
It was pointed out that the shrapnel has been especially marked by the great number of such wounds. Not only do shell-fragments carry germs into the body with bits of clothing, but the dangerous gases from the shrapnel explosion often adhere to the fragments and balls in sufficient quantities to poison the wound. Lockjaw is often produced by wounds of this character, but by vaccinating patients with a tetanus serum the danger surgeons have materially reduced the ratio of deaths in such cases since the first weeks of the war.

Especially dangerous are the wounds caused by fragments of bombs thrown by aviators. Even very small fragments often produce much more dangerous wounds than much larger ones from ordinary shells.
These small fragments penetrate deep into the body, cutting through all blood vessels; and thick masses of muscle are cut through as with a sharp knife. Aeroplane bombs also frequently cause and burn down
the present type of bullet is to cut through the blood vessels, whereas they would often be pushed aside by the older low bullet and cause disruption. This is regarded by Payr as one of the most dangerous result of the small calibre bullet, especially where veins and arteries are cut through deep in the body.

Wounds in the abdomen, says Payr,
are most dangerous.

MARRIED LIFE BEST TWO COUPLES THINK

And One is Remarried.—Other Refuses to Pay Divorce Proceedings Following Reconciliation.

The life of single bliss proved too much for Herbert E. Paimerton and Corra A. Paimerton, divorced last July by Judge George Grimm in circuit court. Today they were reinstated in their former marital relation.
Judge Grimm annulled the former divorce decree upon the joint application of the two. They have become reconciled and desire to travel the thorny path together once again.
Frederick J. Frow of Milton, Junction had an experience somewhat similar to Paimerton. Today he was adjudged guilty of contempt of court and ordered committed to the county jail until he pays, as ordered, together with a fine of ten dollars, the money and costs arising from the action for divorce begun by his wife.
Paimerton and the Mrs. Paimerton got to sword points and the latter was going to end it all in court. She started something but failed to finish
it. In the meantime the parties seem to have been reconciled after the divorce proceedings had started. Frederick refused absolutely to pay the expenses incurred.

Arguments have been heard on the plaintiff's motion to set aside the verdict and for a new trial.
Two divorces were granted today.
The first to George M. Frow from Gertrude G. Frow, on the grounds of desertion, and the second, Ruby M.
McConnell from Joseph McConnell,
on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

LITTLE THINGS AND BIG RESULTS.

THE disproportionate bigness of little things is a fact which every now and then strikes me with new interest.

A few weeks ago I went house-hunting with some friends. We traversed many miles of country with our eyes keen to observe houses of all kinds. We constantly commented on various types of architecture and pointed out attractive places to each other. As the day wore on I was struck with the fact that the majority of places which attracted us, the reason of our interest was not the architecture or the striking architecture, but simply because they had certain little touches.

For instance, two white houses stood side by side. They were very similar in their general lines, but one had a little arch of green lattice work at the side door with a rambling vine climbing over it. I don't see how it could have cost more than $25, yet it gave the house a pretty little air of distinction, and while its neighbor went entirely unnoticed, that house was immediately pointed out as an attractive residence.

Again, someone said, "What a darling little place." I looked and saw a little green house, not a bit more striking in itself than dozens we had passed without comment, but at each window was a window box filled with bright colored flowers and gracefully pendant green vines.

Not many of us can afford to build houses that will be distinctive in a large way, but there are few of us who cannot, if we take thought and time, make our homes attractive and appealing by the little individual touches.

Fastidiously filled window boxes, a pretty group of shrubbery, a rose vine clambering over a porch, simply but tastefully verandah with a bowl of fresh flowers on a low table, these are the things that make one turn to look again at a house just as often as beautiful architecture.

Again, painstaking care to keep the lawn and in reasonably good condition, is a very big little factor in the impression it gives. It is almost impossible for a freshly painted house, with well trimmed lawns and neatly kept flower garden to look wholly unattractive.

I have been speaking mostly of small places. There is a country place near the town where I spend my summer, which is known all over the country for one distinctive little feature which its owner has played up. The whole place is enclosed in a white fence of a peculiar pattern, and on every foot of these white fences grow crimson ramblers. The picture produced in the rose season is one which no one who sees it will easily forget. There may be many larger estates in the country than this, but this one little idea of its owner has given it a distinction that has helped to make it famous.

HOOPI LA! KIDDIES

NEW TOYS ARE HERE

Whole Big Steamer Load Arrives at Baltimore from Europe—Santa to Work Just the Same.

Santa Claus is going to have this year, per usual, his bag of imported toys. The darkest days are over. The deepest gloom has been dispersed and the kiddies can have no fear now that they are not going to have a regular Christmas with the foreign goods in which the grown-ups take as much interest for awhile, as the war himself.

War or no war, the toys are here. There are the above mentioned toys from Nuremberg, great big baby dolls from Sonneberg, rubber balls from Vienna, crockery from Carlsbad, linens from Bohemia, porcelain products from Bavaria, and all sorts of musical instruments from Markneukirchen. And, therefore, its going to be considerable Christmas this year.

For weeks and weeks pessimists have been going about with the tale that there would be no toys for Christmas. The Germans, the Swiss, the Austrians and the Bavarians were not this year. They were they? And didn't the United States import more than 65 per cent of her toys from Germany every year for Christmas. Big importing houses had ordered and shipped millions in July and August. Nothing came. Every willow carver and glue pot king was parading around with a twelve pound musket. He couldn't make toys.

Saturday, however, something did come. It was the announcement that a steamer laden with toys had arrived at Baltimore. The cargo consisted of nearly sixty box cars. They have already started a portion of them west. One large mail order house had 1,000 packages in the country. Chicago consignees were scheduled to receive a goodly portion for distribution throughout this territory.

Santa Claus will have his old job just the same this year.

EUROPEAN PINE SHOOT MOTH ATTACKS XMAS TREES.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Washington, Dec. 2.—Bad news for Santa Claus: The Department of Agriculture announced that Christmas trees, as well as other American trees, have been attacked by a pest which is doing serious damage to them.

The insect is an orange-red moth, the larva of which hollows out new tunnels and kills or injures the ends of twigs or pine trees. This insect causes a deformity which is serious in ornamental trees, and in trees grown for lumber makes a crooked growth and a consequent waste when the tree is cut.

In Europe the insect not only attacks all native pines but equally injurious to American species cultivated there. The Department states that the young larvae are found in country within the buds on imported pine seedlings which have come from France, England, Holland, Belgium or Germany.

The Department's investigators have discovered it in ten localities in six states from Massachusetts to Pennsylvania, but it is feared that it will be found in many other localities. It is unusually common on European pines in nurseries and private parks. It has been found to have existed on Long Island for more than two years.

"It is hoped that the new pest may be stamped out before it becomes widespread to be controlled," said the Agricultural Department. "At present the problem of its elimination is confined mainly to nurseries but if it once gets into the native pine forests the experts think it would be beyond control. In its larval stage, the moth is so effectively protected in the buds and shoots that it cannot be reached by any insecticide and the only method of getting rid of it is to prune out and destroy the shoots which contain the insect. This should preferably be done during the fall and winter. This is the best time to locate the injured tips and shoots after growth has started in the spring. It is safer and better for the tree to have it done in the fall. Measures for control, therefore, cannot be accomplished without the co-operation of all who grow or plant European pines or deal in them."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I became engaged to a young lady and bought her a diamond ring, paying $300 for it. She is not satisfied with the ring. The kind she wants would cost $300. What do you think about this?

AMERICAN CIVIC SOCIETY TO TALK ABOUT WASHINGTON.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Washington, Dec. 2.—Hundreds of prominent civic and social leaders gathered here today for the annual convention of the American Civic Association. It will continue until Friday.

This is the third time since the founding of the organization that the Association has met at the capital. The entire proceedings of the first session, with a number of speeches notables, will be devoted to consideration of the needs of the capital. Subjects prominently before the convention will relate to city and country parks, comprehensive town planning, care of streets and trees, abatement of bill board, smoke and unnecessary noise nuisances, neighborhood improvement and kindred subjects.

Among those attending the convention are delegates from scores of civic leaders, women's clubs, commercial organizations and delegates especially appointed by governors of many states.

J. Horace McFarland of Harrisburg, Penn., president of the Association, called the convention to order today. Other officials of the association are: First Vice President, John Nolen of Cambridge, Mass.; Vice President, Clinton Rogers Woodruff of Philadelphia; George B. Delley, Dallas, Texas; Directors: Edward Biddle, Carlisle, Pa.; George W. Marston, San Diego; J. Lockie Wilson, Toronto, Canada; Charles H. Wacker, Chicago; Treasurer, William B. Howland, New York; Secretary, Richard B. Watrous, Washington.

Particular attention will be given during the convention toward creation of a National Park Service in the federal government which will make possible a larger administration of great national park areas for recreation.

The Association was formed in 1904 at St. Louis by amalgamation of two organizations then existing, the Outdoor Art Association and the American League for Civic Improvement. The new organization has a membership of several thousand individuals and some seven hundred affiliated societies.

EVERY DAY TO EVERY DAY TALKS

The planning and preparation of lunches for children who live too far from school to take their dinners at home, is apt to be a source of perplexity to the mothers who have this work to do. A square of fresh, soft gingerbread or some crispy ginger-snaps are always a welcome addition to the lunch basket and when wrapped will keep well.

The recipes in today's space have been chosen by a former country woman who has been in the city for some time and who has had to hand over to the city mothers, who may have to make lunches to plan for.

This contribution of two sides in the suggestion that, after school is out and the children are hungry, they may have a treat in their lunchbox, a warm food is what they will like best.

Soft Gingerbread: Two eggs, one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of molasses, one cupful of soda, one cupful of flour, one cupful of butter, one cupful of lard, one cupful of ginger, one cupful of cinnamon, one cupful of nutmeg, one cupful of cloves, one cupful of allspice, one cupful of mace, one cupful of cardamom, one cupful of anise, one cupful of fennel, one cupful of dill, one cupful of coriander, one cupful of caraway, one cupful of celery, one cupful of fennel, one cupful of dill, one cupful of coriander, one cupful of caraway, one cupful of celery.

Molasses Drop Cookies: One large cupful of granulated sugar and two cupfuls of shortening mixed well together. Add one egg, one-third cupful of molasses, one cupful of soda, one cupful of flour, one cupful of butter, one cupful of lard, one cupful of ginger, one cupful of cinnamon, one cupful of nutmeg, one cupful of cloves, one cupful of allspice, one cupful of mace, one cupful of cardamom, one cupful of anise, one cupful of fennel, one cupful of dill, one cupful of coriander, one cupful of caraway, one cupful of celery, one cupful of fennel, one cupful of dill, one cupful of coriander, one cupful of caraway, one cupful of celery.

Apple Dressing for Duck—Take six apples, peel, quarter, cover with water, cook until about half done; add one cup bread crumbs, little sage, an onion sliced very thin and a pinch of cayenne pepper. Mix together and fill duck.

Apple Salad—Peel and core one apple for each person and stew gently in syrup made of one cup sugar, two cups water and one-half cup red cinnamon candies (old-fashioned ones). When able to pierce apples with a fork they are done. Chill in the syrup and serve on a lettuce leaf with spoonful of whipped cream on top. Very pretty and can be served as a dessert without the lettuce.

Spiced Beefsteak—Cut beefsteak into tender, peel and slice (not too thin). Take one and one-half pounds each of vinegar and water, one cup white sugar, one cup brown sugar, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, cloves and allspice tied in thin cloth loosely. Boil all together down to one-half the amount and pour over beef. Can be served covered up in jars. Makes two quarts.

Inexpensive Dinner Dish—For a family of four purchase two and one-half pounds pork chops or the same amount of veal. Stew until tender, and add to gravy.

Pigeons en Gravy—Boil some yellow macaroni until sweet and tender, then cut it in pieces the length of a finger and lay them in a bowl like a straw nest. Truss pigeons and pick them clean, and having stewed them, arrange them as in a nest, pour the gravy over and serve. The nest may be made of boiled rice (thickness of a finger and fried in oil or butter in hot lard, seasoned with pepper and salt. Or make it of bread crumbs, a pinch of sage, a pinch of onion sliced very thin and a pinch of cayenne pepper. Mix together and fill duck.

Or make it of bread crumbs, a pinch of sage, a pinch of onion sliced very thin and a pinch of cayenne pepper. Mix together and fill duck.

Apple Dressing for Duck—Take six apples, peel, quarter, cover with water, cook until about half done; add one cup bread crumbs, little sage, an onion sliced very thin and a pinch of cayenne pepper. Mix together and fill duck.

Apple Salad—Peel and core one apple for each person and stew gently in syrup made of one cup sugar, two cups water and one-half cup red cinnamon candies (old-fashioned ones). When able to pierce apples with a fork they are done. Chill in the syrup and serve on a lettuce leaf with spoonful of whipped cream on top. Very pretty and can be served as a dessert without the lettuce.

Spiced Beefsteak—Cut beefsteak into tender, peel and slice (not too thin). Take one and one-half pounds each of vinegar and water, one cup white sugar, one cup brown sugar, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, cloves and allspice tied in thin cloth loosely. Boil all together down to one-half the amount and pour over beef. Can be served covered up in jars. Makes two quarts.

Inexpensive Dinner Dish—For a family of four purchase two and one-half pounds pork chops or the same amount of veal. Stew until tender, and add to gravy.

Pigeons en Gravy—Boil some yellow macaroni until sweet and tender, then cut it in pieces the length of a finger and lay them in a bowl like a straw nest. Truss pigeons and pick them clean, and having stewed them, arrange them as in a nest, pour the gravy over and serve. EVERY DAY TO EVERY DAY TALKS

The planning and preparation of lunches for children who live too far from school to take their dinners at home, is apt to be a source of perplexity to the mothers who have this work to do. A square of fresh, soft gingerbread or some crispy ginger-snaps are always a welcome addition to the lunch basket and when wrapped will keep well.

The recipes in today's space have been chosen by a former country woman who has been in the city for some time and who has had to hand over to the city mothers, who may have to make lunches to plan for.

Soft Gingerbread: Two eggs, one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of molasses, one cupful of soda, one cupful of flour, one cupful of butter, one cupful of lard, one cupful of ginger, one cupful of cinnamon, one cupful of nutmeg, one cupful of cloves, one cupful of allspice, one cupful of mace, one cupful of cardamom, one cupful of anise, one cupful of fennel, one cupful of dill, one cupful of coriander, one cupful of caraway, one cupful of celery, one cupful of fennel, one cupful of dill, one cupful of coriander, one cupful of caraway, one cupful of celery.

Molasses Drop Cookies: One large cupful of granulated sugar and two cupfuls of shortening mixed well together. Add one egg, one-third cupful of molasses, one cupful of soda, one cupful of flour, one cupful of butter, one cupful of lard, one cupful of ginger, one cupful of cinnamon, one cupful of nutmeg, one cupful of cloves, one cupful of allspice, one cupful of mace, one cupful of cardamom, one cupful of anise, one cupful of fennel, one cupful of dill, one cupful of coriander, one cupful of caraway, one cupful of celery, one cupful of fennel, one cupful of dill, one cupful of coriander, one cupful of caraway, one cupful of celery.

Grease the Cords.
To prevent window blind cords breaking, dust the cords and then rub them over with a well-greased rag. The snapping is caused by friction, which impoverishes the cords, and they are further weakened by the sun and weather.

Why Roquefort Is Strong.
Roquefort cheese gets its sharp flavor from caproic, caprylic and capric acids and their salts, which are formed by a sort of hydrolysis of the fat during the ripening period. This change is caused by a microbe called Penicillium roqueforti. These acids have a peppery taste.

The CALL of the CUMBERLANDS

CHARLES NEVILLE BUCK
WITH ILLUSTRATIONS FROM PHOTOGRAPHS
OF SCENES IN THE PLAY

At eleven o'clock the painter, having shown his guest over the premises, said good-night and went uptown to his own house. Samson lay a long while awake, with many disquieting reflections.

Meanwhile Lescott, letting himself into a house overlooking the park, was hailed by a chorus of voices from the dining room. He turned and went in to join a gay group just back from the opera. As he thoughtfully mixed himself a highball, they bombarded him with questions.

"Why didn't you bring your barbarian with you?" demanded a dark-eyed girl, who looked very much as Lescott himself might have looked had he been a girl—and very young and lovely. Now she flashed on him an affectionate smile, and added: "We have been waiting to see him. Must we go to bed disappointed?"

George stood looking down on them, and tinkled the ice in his glass.

"He wasn't brought on for purposes of exhibition, Drennie," he smiled. "I was afraid if he came in here in the fashion of his arrival—carrying his saddlebags—you ultracivilized folk might have laughed."

"No! Now, actually with saddlebags!" echoed a young fellow with a likable face which was for the moment incredulously amused. "That goes Dick Whittington one better. You do make some rare discoveries, George. We celebrate you."

"Thanks, Horton," commented the painter, dryly. "When you New Yorkers have learned what these barbarians already know, the control of your oversensitized risibles and a courtesy deeper than your shirt-fronts—maybe I'll let you have a look. Meantime I'm much too fond of all of you to risk letting you laugh at my barbarian."

Several months were spent laboring with charcoal and paper over plaster casts in Lescott's studio, and Lescott himself played instructor. When the skylight darkened with the coming of evening, the boy whose mountain nature cried out for exercise went for long tramps that carried him over many miles of city pavements, and after that, when the gas was lit, he turned, still insatiably hungry, to volumes of history, and algebra, and facts.

A sloop-rigged boat with a crew of two was dancing before a brisk breeze through blue Bermuda water. Off to the right Hamilton rose sheer and colorful from the bay. At the tiller sat the white-clad figure of Adrienne Lescott. Puffs of wind that whipped the tautly billowing sheets lashed her dark hair about her face. Her lips, vividly red like poppy petals, were just now curved into an amused smile, which made them even more than ordinarily kissable and tantalizing. Her companion was neglecting his nominal duty of tending the sheet to watch her.

"Wilfred," she teased, "your contrast is quite startling—and, in a way, effective. From head to foot you are spotless white—but your scowl is absolutely the blackest black that my eyes endure." And, she added, in an injured voice, "I'm sure I've been very nice to you."

"I have not yet begun to scowl," he assured her, and proceeded to show what superlatives of saturnine expression he held in reserve. "See here, Drennie, I know perfectly well that I'm a sheer imbecile to reveal the fact that you've made me mad. It pleases you too perfectly. It makes you happier than is good for you, but—"

"It's a terrible thing to make me happy, isn't it?" she inquired, sweetly. "Drennie, you have held me off since we were children. I believe I first announced my intention of marrying you when you were twelve. That intention remains unaltered. More: It is unalterable and inevitable. My reasons for wanting to needn't be rehearsed. It would take too long. I regard you as possessed of an alert and remarkable mind—one worthy of companionship with my own." Despite the frivolous badinage of his words and the humorous smile of his lips, his eyes hinted at an underlying intensity.

"With no desire to matter or spoil you, I find your personal aspect pleasing enough to satisfy me. And then, while a man should avoid emotionalism, I am in love with you." He moved over to a place in the sternsheets, and his face became intensely earnest. He dropped his hand over hers as it lay on the tiller shaft. "God knows, dear," he exclaimed, "how much I love you!"

Her eyes, after holding his for a moment, fell to the sea, which still imprisoned her own. She shook her head, not in anger, but with a manner of gentle denial, until he released her fingers and stepped back.

"You Are a Dear, Wilfred?"

"You are a dear, Wilfred," she comforted, "and I couldn't manage to get on without you, but you aren't marriageable—at least, not yet."

"Why not?" he asked.

"In the first place, you are one of those men whose fortunes are listed in the top schedule—the swollen fortunes. Socialists would put you in the predatory class."

"Drennie," he groaned, "it's not my fault that I'm rich. It was wished on me. If you are serious, I'm willing to become poor as Job's turkey. Show me the way to strip myself, and I'll stand shortly before you begging alms."

"To what end?" she questioned.

"Poverty would be quite inconvenient. I shouldn't care for it. But hasn't it ever occurred to you that the man who wears the strongest and brightest mail, and who by his own confession is possessed of an alert brain, ought occasionally to be seen in the lists?"

"In short, your charge is that I am a shirker—and, since it's the same thing, a coward?"

Adrienne did not at once answer him, but she straightened out for an uninterrupted run before the wind, and by the tiny moss-green flecks, which moments of great seriousness brought to the depths of her eyes, he knew that she meant to speak the unveiled truth.

"Besides your own holdings in a lot of railways and things, you handle your mother's and sister's property, don't you?"

"He nodded.

"In a fashion, I do. I sign the necessary papers when the lawyers call me up and ask me to come downtown."

"You are a director in the Metropole Trust company?"

"Guilty."

"In the Consolidated Seacoast?"

"I believe so."

"With your friends, who are also shareholders, you could assume control of the Morning Intelligence, couldn't you?"

"I guess I could assume control, but what would I do with it?"

to see you want to do."

"Name it! I'll want to do it forthwith."

"I think when you are one of a handful of the richest men in New York; when, for instance, you could dictate the policy of a great newspaper, yet know it only as the course that follows your grapefruit, you are a shirker and a drone, and are not playing the game." Her hand tightened on the tiller. "I think if I were a man riding on the polo field I'd either try like the devil to drive the ball down between the posts, or I'd come inside and take off my boots and colors. I wouldn't hover in a ladylike futility around the edges of the scrimmage."

She knew that Horton, who played polo like a fiend incarnate, the figure would be effective, and she whipped out her words with something very close to scorn.

"There's my hand on it, Drennie," he said. "We start back to New York tomorrow, don't we? Well, when I get there I put on overalls and go to work. When I propose next I'll have something to show."

CHAPTER IX.

Christmas came to Misery wrapped in a drab mantle of desolation. At the cabin of the Widow Miller Sally was sitting alone before the logs. She laid down the slate and spelling book, over which her forehead had been strenuously puckered, and gazed somewhat mournfully into the blaze. Sally had a secret. It was a secret which she based on a faint hope. If Samson should come back to Misery he would come back full of new notions. No man had ever yet returned from that outside world unaltered. No man ever would. A terrible premonition said he would not come at all, but if he did—if he did—she must know how to read and write. Maybe, when she had learned a little more, she might even go to school for a term or two.

The cramped and distorted chirography on the slate was discouraging. It was all proving very hard work. The girl gazed for a time at something she saw in the embers, and then a faint smile came to her lips. By next Christmas she would surprise Samson with a letter. It should be well written, and every "hain't" should be an "ain't."

The normal human mind is a reservoir which fills at a rate of speed regulated by the number and caliber of its feed pipes. Samson's mind had long been almost empty, and now from so many sources the waters of new things were rushing in upon it that under their pressure it must fill fast, or give away.

He was saved from hopeless complications of thought by a sanity which was willing to assimilate without too much effort to analyze. The boy from Misery was presently less biassed to the eye than many of the unkempt bohemians he met in the life of the studios, men who quarreled garrulously over the end and aim of Art, and who, for the most part, knew nothing of it. He retained, except within a small circle of intimates, a silence that passed for taciturnity, and a solemnity of visage that was often construed into surly egotism.

He still wore his hair long, and, though his conversation gradually sloughed off much of its idiom and vulgarity, enough of the mountaineer stood out to lend to his personality a savor of the crudely picturesque.

Meanwhile he drew and read and studied and walked, and every day's advancement was a forced march. Lescott, tremendously interested in his experiment, began to fear that the boy's too great somberness of disposition would defeat the very earnestness from which it sprang. So one morning the landscape-maker called on a friend whom he rightly believed to be the wisest man, and the greatest humorist in New York.

"I want your help," said Lescott. "I want you to meet a friend of mine and take him under your wing in a fashion. He needs you."

The stout man's face clouded. A few years ago he had been peddling his manuscripts with the heart-sickness of unsuccessful middle age. Today men coupled his name with those of Kipling and De Maupassant. One of his antipathies was meeting people who sought to lionize him. Lescott read the expression, and, before his host had time to object, swept into his regal.

At the end he summarized:

"The artist is much like the better pup. If it's in him, it's as instinctive as a dog's nose. But to become efficient he must go a-field with a steady veteran of his own breed."

"I know!" The great man, who was also the simple man, smiled reminiscently. "They tried to teach me to herd sheep, when my nose was itching for bird country. Bring on your man; I want to know him."

Samson was told nothing of the benevolent conspiracy, but one evening shortly later he found himself sitting at a cafe table with his sponsor and a stout man, almost as silent as himself. The stout man responded with something like churlish tactiturnity to the half-dozen men and women who came over with fatteries. But later, when the trio was left alone, his face brightened, and he turned to the boy from Misery.

"Does Billy Conrad still keep store at Staghorn?"

Samson started and his gaze fell in amazement. At the mention of the name he saw a cross-roads store with rough mules hitched to fence palings. It was a picture of home, and here was a man who had been there! With glowing eyes the boy dropped unconsciously back into the vernacular of the hills.

"Hev you been thar, stranger?"

The writer nodded, and sipped his whisky.

"Not for some years, though," he confessed, as he drifted into reminiscence, which to Samson was like water to a parched throat.

When they left the cafe the boy felt as though he were taking leave of an old and tried friend. By homely methods, this unerring diagnostician of the human soul had been reading him, liking him, and making him feel a heart-warming sympathy.

Expulsive Extraordinary.
The editor of the Interior was once criticized for his use of expulatives; but he asserts his independence in the following choice sentence: "We are going to insist upon our copyright, and we warn whomever it may concern to let our expulsive property alone. We will give a sample of it, so as to scare everybody: 'Oh, you old baldichino! you starry-eyed gargoyle! you windy balcony! you crooked corbel! For a cent we would knock you into the middle of next week with the butt-end of a vestibule!'"
